PROFESSION

- The DLH program educates dental assistants to become hygienists who have developed a high degree of clinical competence and knowledge of the dental practice. Upon completion of the DLH program, students will be awarded an Associate in Applied Science Degree. A career as a dental hygienist offers a wide range of challenges. In the dental office, the dentist and the dental hygienist work together to meet the oral health needs of patients. Duties include cleaning teeth, imaging of teeth, providing dental care instructions to patients and maintaining patient records. Additional duties may be found within the Illinois Dental Practice Act.
- Demand for the dual-trained Certified Dental Assistant/Registered Dental Hygienist offers the graduate the opportunity to choose the type of practice, the area, and the environment in which to work.
- Dental hygienists use a variety of interpersonal and clinical skills to meet the oral health needs of many different patients each day. Hygienists have opportunities to help special population groups such as children, the elderly and the disabled. They may also provide oral health instruction in primary and secondary schools and other settings.
- Flexible scheduling is a distinctive feature of this job, with full-time, part-time, evening and weekend work widely available.
- An Associate in Applied Science Degree in Dental Hygiene is sufficient for practicing in a private dental office. A bachelor's or master's degree is required for research, teaching or clinical practice in public or school health programs. Speak with the Dental Hygiene Program Coordinator for active partnerships to obtain a BS in Dental Hygiene.

DENTAL HYGIENE ECONOMICS

- The services that dental hygienists provide are needed and valued by a large percentage of the population. There is currently a great demand for dental hygienists. Employment opportunities will be excellent well into the future. Due to the success of preventive dentistry in reducing the incidence of oral disease, the expanding older population will retain their teeth longer, and will be even more aware of the importance of regular dental care. With the emphasis on preventive care, dentists will need to employ more dental hygienists than ever before to meet the increased demand for dental services.
- According to the Illinois WorkNET Center (February, 2021)
 - Wages Earn $73,493 per year
 - Employment Large occupation
 - 10 Year Growth Average growth
 - Annual Openings High
- The US Department of Labor, Bureau of Labor Statistics 2019 data indicates the average hourly salary for dental hygiene in the United States is $36.65 per hour with an annual mean wage of $64,780.

PROGRAM OBJECTIVES

The goals of the DLH program are to comprehensively prepare competent graduates in dental hygiene who:

1. Prepare students, through proper academic and clinical educations, to be qualified dental professionals.
2. Provide comprehensive dental hygiene care to patients to enhance the clinical education of students.
3. Develop health education skills for students and faculty through participation in the delivery of clinical and educational services in the community.
4. Utilize skills to assess, diagnose, plan, implement, and evaluate treatment that are essential to the maintenance of patients' health.
5. Instill an appreciation and motivation for lifelong learning and professional growth in the students.
